PROPERTY OWNERS OUSTING OF BOARD WANT TAXES REFUNDED

The city board of commissioners last night took official action on the matter of prohibiting coasting on all the streets of the city leading directly from the bench to the car line on Washington avenue, by referring the matter to the superintendent of public safety. It was the opinion of the board that Twenty-seventh street is the only safe coasting place near the business district and it will be recommended that the boys confine themselves to that street in their sport.

The following claims were allowed and the auditor instructed to draw warrants for the amounts:

Waterworks	$1,446.30
General fund	211.41
Public safety	256.68
Streets	640.73

The bonds of Patrick Healy, L. E. Wurtz and T. C. Foley for liquor licenses were approved and the applications for renewal of licenses were certified to the judges of the district court.

Property owners on Twenty-ninth street, between Madison and Monroe avenues, petitioned the board to refund certain taxes on the frontage of their property, which was levied for the opening of Twenty-ninth street from Washington to Quincy avenues, on the grounds that title is vested in the city by right of possession for the twenty years. It is claimed by the petitioners that the roadway was first used by the county and then by the city. The petition was referred to the city attorney.

HANDICAP MATCH AT THE ORPHEUM TONIGHT

Tonight at the Orpheum theatre will be staged the Jack Harbertson-Chester-Long handicap wrestling match in which the former has agreed to throw the other two in ninety minutes. In agreeing to perform the double feat, Harbertson will attempt something in the line of wrestling that few wrestlers would care to try. Both of his opponents are strong and clever wrestlers and each believe that they are able to hold the Ogden man for the full time of the bout.

Harbertson has realized from the date the articles were signed that he would have a big job on his hands and immediately secured Waino Ketonen, the popular Finnish wrestler, as a trainer. Under Ketonen's tutelage, he has learned a number of new tricks and has been rounded out into the best physical condition, he says, that he ever has been in on the eve of a match, and is confident of keeping his agreement.

There will be some good preliminaries to the main bout and the program promises to be full of interest from the tap of the first gong.

VOICES TO BE TESTED FOR THE CATHOLIC GLEE CLUB

Tonight at St. Joseph's Catholic church a vocal troupe will be held under the direction of Prof. T. Earl Pardee. The purpose is to select singers for the glee club, which will have a big part in the production of "The Senior," the drama which is to be presented at the Orpheum theatre on the nights of February 9 and 10, under the auspices of the St. Joseph's church choir and the Knights of Columbus.

There will be sixteen male voices chosen for the glee club tonight and all male members of the Catholic church are eligible to contest for the positions. There are ten musical numbers to be sung during the presentation of "The Senior" and these will form an important part of the production. In addition to the glee club, a ladies' quartet and a mixed quartet will render several of the numbers. Mrs. Maurice Kennedy, director of St. Joseph's church choir, will assist Prof. Pardee in working up the musical part of the production.

MITCHELL DECIDES ON APPOINTMENTS

New York, Dec. 30.—Mayor-elect John Purroy Mitchell, who will assume office Thursday, has practically decided on his list of appointments to important city offices with the exception of police commissioner. This office is giving him much worry. The place has been offered to W. Cameron Forbes, of Massachusetts, former governor general of the Philippines, but Mr. Mitchell has received word that Mr. Forbes is not likely to accept.

Paying Toll on Tigris River.

At one ferry on the Tigris river the toll is as follows: For a poor Arab, two cents; for a prosperous Arab, four cents; for a soldier, ten cents; for a pilgrim, twenty cents; for a European, eighty cents. The scale of prices for nearly everything along the way is similar. But many of the Arabs are so poor that they prefer to swim across in the ancient manner. They bind several old gourds together and then, sitting upon them, paddle their way along.—Christian Herald.

SEVIER FOREST HAS AGRICULTURAL LAND

Supervisor O. C. Snow, who had been on detail for a week at the forest office in Ogden, returned to Panguitch yesterday. During the past summer he began the work of classifying all the lands in the Sevier national forest for the purpose of determining the location of lands more valuable for agricultural purposes than for forest or public use. At the close of the field season about 325,000 acres had been covered, which show a comparatively small amount of agricultural land available for settlement within the forest. Of the 325,000 acres, only about 3000 acres were found to be agricultural in character, while probably 4000 acres additional were listed as possible agricultural and their final classification deferred, pending final examination and classification by expert agriculturists from the bureau of soils. About 475,000 acres are yet to be classified.

Mr. Snow believes that the amount of agricultural land to be found in the Sevier will compare favorably with any other forest in Utah, and, indeed, any forest in district 4.

The Sevier forest embraces the headwaters of the Sevier river, named in honor of the famous explorer and Indian fighter, John Sevier. It is made up of numerous smaller water systems, offering abundant irrigation facilities invariably associated with agricultural lands at elevations not exceeding 7500 to 8000 feet. While some native hay crops are grown above 7500 feet elevation, it is not believed that field crops requiring irrigation and cultivation can be successfully grown at elevations in excess of this. The abundance of water for irrigation and the usual deep soil found on the plateaus of this forest make available for settlement most of the tillable untimbered areas below about 7500 feet elevation. Above this elevation, the climate is so severe that the maintenance of a home is impracticable.

The most heavily timbered areas, embracing about 450,000 acres of the Sevier, have been covered by a timber survey which shows about 650,000,000 feet of merchantable timber ready for market. In making the timber survey of this area, no material smaller than 6 inches D. B. H. was considered.

Following the timber survey and the agricultural classification of the lands in the Sevier, a grazing reservation will be undertaken to determine the proper grazing management of this important watershed. This work will entail the complete identification and classification of all the flora, and include definite plans for the utilization of different forage plants on the various areas affecting watershed protection and timber preservation and production. Watershed protection is of prime importance on this area.

Purposeless Stream Becomes Puleasant

The Sevier is one of those strange streams of the west that resemble so much the derelict at sea. Having its source on the Arizona line, and not content to the lost in a nearby sink, like some of the streams over the divide to the west (before irrigation began their utilization), the Sevier flows hundreds of miles apparently in its ineffectual effort to reach the sea, and, before giving up its task, returns to within 200 miles of the point from whence it started. Within two days of its starting has been the transformation of this aimless wanderer to the aorta of perhaps the greatest irrigation system or greatest series of systems in the mother state of irrigation. Its hundreds of miles of sinuous course, and the very fact that it seems to have tried every county of southern and central Utah—Kane, Garfield, Piute, San Juan, and Millard—are turned to the best account in the added areas thus made accessible to the crop-producing fluid it carried.

Future Possibilities of the Sevier.

The state, appreciating the possibilities of this river for irrigation, has already constructed a third large reservoir, and is now busily engaged on the Plute project, which, when completed, will rival any storage reservoir in the state, and indeed any in the sister states. Besides these, the state has provided for the settlement under the Carey act of a vast agricultural area in Millard county by the construction of a third large reservoir along the channel of the Sevier. This river is about 250 miles long and all the way along its course water is diverted for irrigation and domestic purposes. Probably as many as fifteen dry dams have been built across the river from its head to where it empties into the Sevier river in Millard county. Each time the water is diverted from the river it is only to be sent back to the river channel to be diverted for irrigation by another community of settlers several miles farther down the stream. While this river is now furnishing water for not less than 200,000 acres of irrigated farm lands in Panguitch, Circle and Sevier valleys, the state's engineers have declared it has not yet reached its greatest possibilities.

But even the Sevier must boom and decline, and it is to correct this department that so many reservoirs must be constructed. Since in practice, the water seems to be used and reappear for use again, the ideal condition is to store the water as near the source as possible, and this is one of the prime functions of the Sevier forest. As a look far into the future, the mountain slopes from which this great water supply is gathered should not only be kept in their present forest condition, but that condition extended and improved by good management and planting to the end that they furnish the best possible facilities for retarding run-off in the spring time with corresponding constancy of water supply in summer.

PEST HOUSE IS NOW OCCUPIED BY A PATIENT

For the first time in several months the city pesthouse has an occupant under quarantine. The afflicted party is Henry G. Highland, a driver for the American Express company. He was taken to the place last night from the rooming house of Mrs. Jos. Bauscher at 2533 Adams avenue.

Melba Hodgson, who lives at 158 Twenty-second street and a son of C. A. Marriott, 1204 Heintzelman avenue, custodian of the city schools, were also placed under the yellow flag quarantine yesterday at their homes.

A. P. Aaron, 2937 Pingree avenue, was quarantined for scarlet fever.

SMITHSONIAN.

Yes, that's our name. We've been here nearly a quarter of a century and as our health is still good, we expect to stay a while yet. What are we here for? Oh, just to help out those boys and girls who cannot go through the high school—yes, we give them a good business training and then put them to work. No, it doesn't take very long, about six to ten months, owing to how well fitted they are when they come in and how hard they work. Yes, you can enter any time after this week. You see our enrollment this year has already reached 216 and we had to stop and rest a few days, but beginning next Monday we will have a corps of nine teachers ready to greet you, day or night.

Yes, new classes will be organized in stenography, civil service or commercial branches. Better come and see us.

COMPANY ISSUES STATEMENT.

New York, Dec. 30.—Rose and Pasquale counsel for the Simpson Crawford company, and the Fourteenth Street Store, for which receivers have been named along with certain other interests of the Siegel Stores corporation, issued the following statement today:

"The appointment of receivers was consented to only after every effort had been made to continue the business. The concerns are accustomed to a large line of banking credit, which has been steadily curtailed during the last year. The individuals, Messrs Siegel and Bogel, have contributed their entire personal fortunes as well as all of their energy towards saving the situation and will continue to devote their energies in connection with the creditors towards speedy re-organization and resumption of business of the several concerns."

The Siegel Stores corporation was incorporated in Delaware in 1909. Henry Siegel is president and has been active manager of the stores. The gross business of the corporation has been about $40,000,000 annually.

ARRESTS INCLUDE INTOXICATED WOMAN

There were only two persons arrested last night. The first was Richard Rowe, who was taken in by Officer William Brown on a charge of cruelty to animals. Annie Parker was the other one. She was arrested by Detective Tom Burke between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth street on Washington avenue at 7:20 o'clock in a state of intoxication. Both gave bail for their appearance and were released.

There was no municipal court session held this morning owing to the absence of Judge Reeder on a rabbit hunt.

CAUSE OF DEATH IS A MYSTERY

New York, Dec. 30.—An autopsy performed today on the body of a man in a trunk and dumped at an east-side tenement doorway yesterday, failed to reveal the exact way in which the victim had come to his death. The neck was dislocated, but this is believed to have been when the trunk lid was closed, more than likely after death.

"Asphyxia through strangulation," was the cause of death, but there were no signs of violence on the throat.

Fearful the Worst.

Arthur suffered so severely from toothache, due to a bad tooth, that his father finally insisted upon the aching sufferer's removal. The little lad boy bravely under the operation, but seemed troubled on the way home. At last he voiced the cause of his anxiety. "Papa," he asked, pale and trembling, "am I a cripple now?"

DOUBLE HEADER FOR THE TRAIN TO THE RABBIT HUNT

At 7:30 o'clock this morning the largest hunting party, according to Depot Master John Shields, that ever left the city, boarded the train at the Union depot for the trip to Monument, where the big rabbit hunt will take place. The crowd filled three passenger cars to their fullest capacity, and the boys were well supplied with ammunition for a big killing.

There was a large supply of eatables and refreshments and hot coffee was proclaimed all by Chief of Police W. I. Norton, who has been acting as chairman of the arrangement committee for the hunt. In addition to the three passenger cars, a baggage car was attached to the train, to bring back the dead bunnies and the train was pulled by two engines.

There were nearly two hundred men in the party. The hunt will take place on the flats between Monument and Rosel. The trip each way will occupy about three hours and the party expects to leave Monument for home at about 4:00 p. m.

Maintain High Ideals.

The most difficult problem that any human being has to solve is the prevention of an insidious lowering of his standards. It is so easy to grow a little careless about personal appearance, to be a trifle less particular in discerning the difference between right and wrong, to drop into habits of neglect in small matters that were once considered duties, that gradually the whole life has slipped to a lower plane before one is aware. The lowering of ideals along any line means a lowered life.—Great Thoughts.
